

May Your Love

Today, many years ago you married

That must have been the best day of your life

You know, loves a wonderful blessing

And to have it in a marriage just feels right

May your love keep on growing

as the years you go through

May our Father in the heavens keep watching over you

And most of all through good times and the bad times

May your love for each other, last till life is through

Times are getting harder every season

And each new day seems to make life tough

I guess that's why, marriage is the reason

To help each other through when times are hard

May your love keep on growing

as the years you go through

May our Father in the heavens keep watching over you

And most of all through good times and the bad times

May your love for each other, last till life is through

Nowadays, couples break so often, and what they're calling love seldom lasts

But with the good Lord guiding as your captain

Your love will be a thing no man can part

May your love keep on growing

as the years you go through

May our Father in the heavens keep watching over you

And most of all through good times and the bad times

May your love for each other, last till life is through
